1 Samuel 16:1B, 6-7, 10-13A

Here's the background on today's reading: God wants a new king of Israel. He's not happy with King Saul, so he sends the prophet Samuel to Jesse's home to find a new leader. Jesse has eight sons. Seven are present. Samuel sees the oldest and thinks he's the one. In fact, any one of them can be God's choice in Samuel's eyes, but God stops him cold.

"Do not judge from his appearance or from his lofty stature, because I have rejected him. Not as man sees does God see, because man sees the appearance but the Lord looks into the heart," God tells Samuel.

Rick Ezell says, "In Biblical thought, the heart was the central organ that controlled all activities thus determining one's character of living. The heart housed the place where qualities worth having in our lives were first formed. The heart embodied the womb of character."

David, the youngest of Jesse's sons, in out in the field, tending the sheep. A teenager, he killed a bear and a lion while protecting his flock. He's a ruddy, handsome youth, the Scripture says, but, hey, he's just a kid. What's he know about being a king? What's he know about leading an army? What's he know about life? He was a throwaway as far as his family was concerned—they didn't even consider him a possibility. And, yet, David is the one chosen by God to be the next king.

In Religion 6, I love to tell the story of David. This scrawny kid, playing his harp for the sheep, unaware that he is destined for greatness. You know why? Because the students I teach are just about the same age as David when he was anointed to lead the great nation of Israel. Each one of them could be a David. Each one of them could be destined for greatness. It doesn't matter how small or insignificant they appear to be to others, even to their own family. They could lead armies! No one is insignificant in God's eyes because he looks into their heart.

In 1983 after his appointment as bishop of Duluth, Bishop Brom got to meet with Pope John Paul II for what he thought was the first time. John Paul, looking pensively at Brom's face said, "I think we have met before." Brom assured the pope that they'd never met. People usually remember whether or not they met a pope!

Some days later the secretary to the Holy Father approached Bishop Brom and said, "Don't argue with the Pope. He remembers when he met you."

"When?" Brom asked.

"In November of 1963 outside the Church of the Gesu in Rome."

The memory flashed back to the meeting he had with a polish cardinal when he was a young seminarian. "How can he do that?" he asked. The secretary explained that for John Paul to meet another person is to encounter God.

To St. John Paul II, no person was insignificant.

Labels are so easy. They can be useful. Teachers teach. Doctors heal. Policemen protect us. But labels are damaging, too. Teenagers are rebellious. Old people are boring. Needy people are invasive.

The problem with labels is that they are static. People are constantly growing. This week, when we are tempted to judge by appearances, let's think about looking at the heart. We will see so much more.

THE YEAR OF MERCY WITH POPE FRANCIS

"One should truly listen to the word, in the Bible, in the Gospel, meditating on the Scriptures to put their content into practice every day. But to scan the Gospel superficially is not listening to the Word of God: this is reading the Word of God, as if one would read a comic strip. To listen to God's Word is to read it and ask oneself: 'What does this say to my heart?' Only in this way, in fact, does our life change. This happens every time we open the Gospel and read a passage and ask ourselves: 'Is God speaking to me with this, is he saying something to me?' This means to listen to the Word of God, to listen with the ears and listen with the heart, to open the heart to God's Word." — Pope Francis

SAINT OF THE WEEK
Sts. Perpetua and Felicity
Feast day: March 7

"When my father in his affection for me was trying to turn me from my purpose by arguments and thus weaken my faith, I said to him, 'Do you see this vessel—waterpot or whatever it may be? Can it be called by any other name than what it is?' 'No,' he replied. 'So also I cannot call myself by any other name than what I am—a Christian.'"

So writes Perpetua, young, beautiful, well-educated, a noblewoman of Carthage in North Africa, mother of an infant son and chronicler of the persecution of the Christians by Emperor Septimius Severus.

Despite threats of persecution and death, Perpetua, Felicity (a slave woman and expectant mother) and three companions, Revocatus, Secundulus and Saturninus, refused to renounce their Christian faith. For their unwillingness, all were sent to the public games in the amphitheater. There, Perpetua and Felicity were beheaded, and the others killed by beasts.

Perpetua's mother was a Christian and her father a pagan. He continually pleaded with her to deny her faith. She refused and was imprisoned at 22.

In her diary, Perpetua describes her period of captivity: "What a day of horror! Terrible heat, owing to the crowds! Rough treatment by the soldiers! To crown all, I was tormented with anxiety for my baby.... Such anxieties I suffered for many days, but I obtained leave for my baby to remain in the prison with me, and being relieved of my trouble and anxiety for him, I at once recovered my health, and my prison became a palace to me and I would rather have been there than anywhere else."

Felicity gave birth to a girl a few days before the games commenced.

Perpetua's record of her trial and imprisonment ends the day before the games. "Of what was done in the games themselves, let him write who will." The diary was finished by an eyewitness.

Clarifying Pope Francis' announcement on abortion

I heard Pope Francis allows priests to forgive the sin of abortion. Aren't priests able to forgive any sin?

In September 2015, the media announced that for the Year of Mercy Pope Francis is giving priests the ability to forgive the sin of abortion. However, this is not accurate. Priests are able to forgive any sin; what the Holy Father is granting to priests is the faculty to remit the penalty attached to the ecclesiastical crime of abortion. Let me explain.

Procuring, performing, or facilitating an abortion is always a grave sin. In the Catholic Church, these acts may also constitute a crime in canon law (1398). The sin is distinct from the crime, and those who commit the crime might also incur excommunication.

To incur the penalty, the person who commits the sin must: be Catholic and at least eighteen years old; be aware of the Church's penalty for abortion; and intend in full freedom to end a human life.

If any one of these elements is not present, the person did not incur excommunication. Yet if the priest discovers that the penalty is incurred, he is obliged to contact the local ordinary (usually the diocesan bishop) for permission to remit the penalty—unless the bishop has already given permission, which is the case in many dioceses in the United States. For the Year of Mercy, Pope Francis is giving all priests the faculty to remove the penalty without contacting the bishop. In other words, the Holy Father has extended mercy in the realm of Church law.

No one need believe that confessed sins are unforgiven. Pope Francis' announcement is an encouragement for all, especially people who have committed grave sin, to confess their sins and receive the unfailing mercy of God.
