Acts 15:1-2, 22-29

"No little dissension." "Upset you." "Disturbed your peace of mind."

Something is amiss in the new Christian community in this chapter of Acts. They are fighting over the Law of Moses.

Mosaic Law contained 613 rules for daily Jewish living, from ritual washing to farming, personal and business relationships, courts and property, worship, taxes, clothing—you name it, and there was a law for it. These laws were binding, and the Jewish people took them very seriously. So much so, that "some," as today's reading says, said the new converts had to be circumcised. For this reason, the first ecumenical council was called: The Council of Jerusalem.

Here is the procedure that council used in resolving the dispute, as explained by Luke Timothy Johnston: "Beginning with Peter's speech, and then followed by Paul and Barnabas they begin by recounting and discerning what God had been doing in Church through the Holy Spirit. Next they sought to understand Sacred Scripture in light of their experience of the Holy Spirit. James responds to Peter and Paul saying 'the words of the prophets agree with this.' Next they engage in debate, a necessary part of the process. Finally, they obtain the agreement of the whole assembly. The decision of the council is sent through the messengers Paul, Barnabas, Judas and Silas."

It was a momentous decision. Did you see how they arrived at it? They gathered the "big dogs" together. They examined the history and the workings of the Holy Spirit. They sifted through Scripture. They debated. They "obtain the agreement of the whole assembly." Then, they release the decision through trusted messengers.

Here's the point: There is a hierarchy in the Catholic Church, a visible, clear chain of command that still stands to this day. That's what makes us unique among other churches—the authority of the Catholic Church.

My friend told me recently about a disagreement in her protestant church. A bequest was made with a time limit and a specific purpose on how the money was to be spent. The deacons of the church couldn't agree on the project, and it was dividing the parish. I said, "What's the pastor say?" She said, "He's leaving it up to the committee." Eventually, they lost the bequest because they could not reach a consensus.

That would not happen in the Catholic Church. The priest has the sole authority to make decisions and can, certainly, take the advice of committees. But, it's his neck on the line when it comes to how the parish operates. Committees come, and committees go. The Catholic Church is not a democracy. Never has been. Never will be.

Explaining this doctrine to RCIA participants from other church backgrounds is challenging. Their experience is so different. The Church's chain of command is biblical, as proven by today's reading and subsequent historical events. You may not always agree with the priest's decision, but he has Church's authority that backs him up.

THE KNIGHT'S TOUR CHESS CLUB

The Knight's Tour is a new, non-profit chess club for all ages and we have continuous, open enrollment. Chess is a turn-based, strategy, board game that exercises the brain. Chess teaches discipline, independence, motivation, and requires the participant to take responsibility for their actions. Chess can improve abstract thinking, pattern recognition, planning, improvisation, concentration, logical reasoning, and calculation; chess may also improve memory, imagination, and visualization.

Our short-term goals are to learn the fundamentals of chess, and then improve upon our knowledge and skill. Despite your chess experience, we'll all start together at the beginning to ensure the correct rules are learned and followed.

For more information, please refer to our list of Frequently Asked Questions (FAQ), and for details about how to join The Knight's Tour, please contact Armando via email at chesscoacharmando@gmail.com or visit The Knight's Tour Facebook Page at <https://www.facebook.com/groups/TheKnightsTourChessClub/>

SAINT OF THE WEEK

Sts. Philip and James

May 3

James, Son of Alphaeus: We know nothing of this man except his name, and of course the fact that Jesus chose him to be one of the 12 pillars of the New Israel, his Church. He is not the James of Acts, son of Clopas, “brother” of Jesus and later bishop of Jerusalem and the traditional author of the Letter of James. James, son of Alphaeus, is also known as James the Lesser to avoid confusing him with James the son of Zebedee, also an apostle and known as James the Greater.

Philip: Philip came from the same town as Peter and Andrew, Bethsaida in Galilee. Jesus called him directly, whereupon he sought out Nathanael and told him of the “one about whom Moses wrote” (John 1:45).

Like the other apostles, Philip took a long time coming to realize who Jesus was. On one occasion, when Jesus saw the great multitude following him and wanted to give them food, he asked Philip where they should buy bread for the people to eat. St. John comments, “[Jesus] said this to test him, because he himself knew what he was going to do” (John 6:6). Philip answered, “Two hundred days’ wages worth of food would not be enough for each of them to have a little [bit]” (John 6:7).

John’s story is not a put-down of Philip. It was simply necessary for these men who were to be the foundation stones of the Church to see the clear distinction between humanity’s total helplessness apart from God and the human ability to be a bearer of divine power by God’s gift.

On another occasion, we can almost hear the exasperation in Jesus’ voice. After Thomas had complained that they did not know where Jesus was going, Jesus said, “I am the way...If you know me, then you will also know my Father. From now on you do know him and have seen him” (John 14:6a, 7). Then Philip said, “Master, show us the Father, and that will be enough for us” (John 14:8). Enough! Jesus answered, “Have I been with you for so long a time and you still do not know me, Philip? Whoever has seen me has seen the Father” (John 14:9a).

Possibly because Philip bore a Greek name or because he was thought to be close to Jesus, some Gentile proselytes came to him and asked him to introduce them to Jesus. Philip went to Andrew, and Andrew went to Jesus. Jesus’ reply in John’s Gospel is indirect; Jesus says that now his “hour” has come, that in a short time he will give his life for Jew and Gentile alike.

Spiritual direction vs. advice

What is spiritual direction? How does it differ from counseling and simply asking for religious advice?

In spiritual direction, a person is guided in a process of reflection, self-discovery, and recognition of God’s presence in human experience; the primary focus is on this individual’s relationship with God. Thus, in one sense, it is the Lord himself who is the “director” in all spiritual direction.

In counseling, a person is also guided in a process of reflection and self-discovery; but the primary focus is on human growth and development. Counseling does not presuppose a person’s faith or relationship with God; spiritual direction cannot be complete without it.

Both spiritual direction and counseling share the same expectations of openness and honesty in the process; they share the same standards of confidentiality and professional conduct. Moreover, spiritual direction is similar to counseling in its aim toward human growth and development; but it further aims toward holiness and “toward ever more intimate union with Christ” (Catechism of the Catholic Church 2014). That union is twofold: a personal relationship with Christ and one with Christ’s Church. “This union is called ‘mystical’ because it participates in the mystery of Christ through the sacraments” (CCC 2014). “All Christians in any state or walk of life are called to the fullness of Christian life and to the perfection of charity. All are called to holiness: Be perfect, as your heavenly Father is perfect” (CCC 2013).
