UpFront

with Mary Hendricks

Genesis 18:20-32

Negotiating goes back generations in our family. I watched my grocery-store-owner grandfather bargain with his customers. I learned even more when I heard my mom in the warehouses of Glen Elk where she talked every sales clerk down to minimum prices. Just before I wrote this, I finished haggling with an eBay seller who finally took my lowest offer. But none of us can hold a candle to Son #1.

My decorating dream was to get real wood blinds for six windows in the house, saving nickels and dimes for years to make that happen. Son #2 installed them downstairs, and I stepped back to admire my choice and his work. Wait...what? They looked dark. I checked the packing slip, and the company had sent the wrong color. Customer service was apologetic and sent the right color, and Son #2 had five of the six windows done in no time. The last window was a different story. I had ordered the wrong size, off by about an inch.

Customer service wasn't so helpful this time. I could get the new blind at full price because of my measurement mistake. My savings was depleted, as was my spirit. That's when I called for reinforcements, waking Son #1. He rubbed his eyes and said, "Give me five minutes, and I'll end this bull (insert four-letter word here)."

He had worked in a telephone center and was knowledgeable about working towards "Yes" and dismissing "No." He developed a probability spreadsheet, practiced a few scenarios in his head, and dialed customer service. His first words were, "Let me talk to someone who cares about the reputation of your company."

Based on their past record, he told them, the company had a 66-percent "fail" rate when it came to filling our orders, correctly—their error. "My mom has spent nearly a thousand dollars with your company, and you're going to punish her for a one-inch mistake? She has an 18-percent error rate. Who's making more mistakes? You have caused her a lot of stress by getting the first order wrong and making her wait for the new blinds. Doesn't that count for something?" He was relentless and amazing. By the time he was through, not only did I get a new blind in the right size and color at no cost, I got to keep the wrong ones.

Negotiation is an art form, and Abraham set the benchmark when he bargained with God to save innocent lives in Sodom and Gomorrah. God wanted to destroy the cities because of their grave sin. Abraham shifted into first: "What if I found 50 innocent people with the guilty? Would you spare the cities?"

When God agrees, Abraham shifts into second: "Okay, how about 40? I know I'm just a silly human, but you are a merciful judge." God takes the 40. Third gear: "Will you take 30?" God takes 30. Fourth gear: "20?" God's okay with 20. Then, Abraham hits high gear: "Don't get mad, but what if there are only ten?" The merciful judge agrees to ten. Well, you know the rest of the story. Both cities are wiped out, but not because Abraham didn't give it his best shot.

Here's what this story tells me: 1) Abraham was bold. Very bold. He's trying to strike a deal with the Almighty God. 2) Abraham is an expert intercessor. God hears the prayers of a righteous man. 3) Abraham is on good terms with God. He got that way by keeping a steady conversation with his heavenly Father.

When we hear the Gospel, Jesus teaches us to pray: call God "Our Father," praise him, ask for our needs, forgive us as we forgive others, and keep us from evil. Another simple and perfect formula.

Now, let's add to that the lessons we learn from Abraham: be bold! Intercede for others! Stay in constant contact with God.

Worked for him. Why not us?

What to do when distractions interrupt your prayers

For the past year or so I have been trying to pray on a regular basis, but I am constantly distracted. My mind wanders so easily. Do you have any suggestions?

Distractions in prayer are an inescapable part of the human condition and the result of our imagination. Even great saints experienced distractions in prayer. Some of their suggestions may help. When St. Thérèse of Lisieux struggled with prayer, she would recite an Our Father or Hail Mary or read from the Gospels. Praying an act of faith or returning to God's presence and love can turn our focus away from other concerns, but even then, distractions may still arise.

When we become aware of them, we should calmly renew our focus and continue our prayer. Saint Teresa of Ávila wrote in The Interior Castle, "We should not be distressed by reason of our thoughts, nor allow ourselves to be worried by them....[Thoughts are] inevitable. Do not let them disturb or grieve you." No matter how often distractions return or how long they last, they are not sinful; rather, they are opportunities to show God that we are sincere about praying.

Saint Alphonsus, another great teacher of prayer, reminds us that prayer is necessary, beneficial, and always possible, even in the
